

UNESCO: Countering Online Hate Speech

Article 1: Scope of the Problem

Online hate speech is a global phenomenon. It often targets vulnerable groups based on their gender, race, ethnicity, or sexual orientation. Derogatory comments that attack these groups are harmful to social cohesion.

Article 2: The Role of Technology

AI systems must be designed to filter, report, and prevent the dissemination of hate speech. Systems that generate or amplify sexism, racism, or religious intolerance are considered highly toxic and unethical.

Section 1: Educational Interventions

Fostering digital citizenship and media literacy is crucial. Users must be educated on the impact of their online behavior and the consequences of sharing harmful content.
